A Brief History of the Children's Theatre of Terre Haute, Inc.

In November of 1936 a group of 12 women met at the home of Mrs. Oscar Baur to formulate a plan for establishing a Children's Theatre in Terre Haute. Realizing the value of such a movement, this group enthusiastically set out to interest others. Successful in their efforts, 27 women became founders of what is known today as the Children's Theatre of Terre Haute, Inc. These founders were:

The first slate of officers presented and accepted was: Mrs. Oscar Baur, President; Mrs. John T. Connelly, Secretary; and Mrs. Will Kivits, Treasurer. The purpose of the organization was to encourage and develop in the child appreciation and dramatic talent for the theatre. A later rewording of the purpose reads: To encourage and develop in the child dramatic talent and appreciation for the theatre and to provide actual participation in the arts of the theatre in all its phases of production and in its application as an educational entertainment medium.

The plays of the first season were The Wizard of Oz and Treasure Island directed and produced by Jane Freeman Savage assisted by Jane Cunningham Hazledine and Heidi directed and produced by Emerelous Van Cleave Reintjes. The first season of plays proved to the founders that a children's theatre could be self-supporting and that the public was interested in the endeavor.

In September 1937, Indiana State Teachers College (now Indiana State University) and the Public School Systems of Terre Haute and Vigo County (now the Vigo County School Corporation) expressed their desire to become affiliated with the organization. Since the object of the Children's Theatre, then as now, was to encourage self-expression in children, the founders believed the sponsorship of the schools would prove valuable and the proposal for a cooperative association was accepted. The founders retained the privilege of conducting all business connected with the organization, and Mrs. Lillian Masters accepted the position of director. During the ensuing years of the Children's Theatre plays, large casts of children were a trademark of Lillian Masters' fine productions many of which were written by Mrs. Masters in collaboration with her husband Dr. Robert Masters.

Originated in 1937 was the Children's Theatre Plaque which records for each year the names of the person or persons recognized for outstanding achievement and cooperation in the work of Children's Theatre of Terre Haute, Inc. The plaque is placed in the Green Room of the Sycamore Playhouse on the Indiana State University campus.

From 1937 until 1947 the Children's Theatre organization hired the directors and the members provided the manpower for all phases of productions. In June 1947, the Children's Theatre contracted with Indiana State University for the production of the plays and the membership assumed responsibility for selling season tickets and assisting on all the production crews. In the fall of 1961 the Children's Theatre celebrated its 25th year with a Silver Anniversary production of the play Heidi directed by Thomas L. Headley.

In October 1964 the members of the Children's Theatre of Terre Haute, Inc. unanimously voted to establish with accumulated funds and contributions the Lilith Baur Children's Theatre Scholarship Fund to be awarded through the Indiana State University Foundation. The scholarship is a living memorial to honor Mrs. Oscar Baur, the founder of the organization. The interest from this fund is used annually for the scholarship to further the education of a student, or students, who has demonstrated an interest in children's theatre production. Since the spring of 1966, there have been 15 scholarship recipients, and it remains the aim of the organization to increase substantially this perpetual fund throughout the years.

In 1967 an agreement with the University released the Children's Theatre members from production crew work, and the members assumed full responsibility for the season ticket campaign in the schools and community as well as the hostessing during the performances of the plays. In 1975 the members agreed to staff the box office for the University the week before and during the performances of Children's Theatre plays.

In the fall of 1974 the Children's Theatre membership in cooperation with the University and the Vigo County elementary schools initiated a field trip program which offers a special performance of a season's play for fifth and sixth grades during school hours and without charge. The same year the Children's Theatre members established a Student Ticket Pool funded by contributions with tickets given to groups of less fortunate youngsters previously unable to attend.

In the spring of 1975 Reynard the Fox was presented as theatre-in-the-round in the Cotillion Room of the University Conference Center which expanded the program to include proscenium and in-the-round productions as part of the Children's Theatre season. This event heralded a new era in Children's Theatre which is still in progress.

The 1975-76 and 1976-77 seasons saw a significant new alliance formed among the Children's Theatre of Terre Haute, Inc., Indiana State University, and Saint Mary-of-the-Woods College. The Peppermint Stick Players were founded by the two academic institutions to tour children's theatre to communities in central and southwestern Indiana which are not as fortunate as Terre Haute. The Children's Theatre of Terre Haute, Inc., helped to make this venture possible by allowing certain plays each year intended for touring to be included in its regular season of local performances.

Throughout its 40 year history, the Children's Theatre of Terre Haute, Inc., has changed to reflect new and developing trends in theatre for young audiences. At the same time, it has held tenaciously to its central goal of providing the best possible theatre for young audiences of the Terre Haute area.

MEETINGS

Meetings held first Monday of each month, unless legal holiday, from September through June. No meeting will be held in January.

In November 1936, a group of twelve women met at the home of Mrs. Oscar Baur to form a plan for founding a Children's Theater in Terre Haute. Realizing the value of such a movement, this group enthusiastically set out to interest others. Successful in their efforts, twenty-seven women became founders of what is known today as The Children's Theatre of Terre Haute, Incorporated.

The first slate officers presented and accepted was:

Mrs. Oscar Baur, President
Mrs. John J. Connelly, Secretary
Mrs. Will Kivits, Treasurer

The plays for the first season were: The Wizard of Oz and Treasurer Island, —directed and produced by Mrs. Jane Freeman Savage and assisted by Mrs. Jane Cunningham Hazledine; followed by Heidi, directed and produced by Mrs. Harold Reintjes.

The first season proved two things to the Founders. First — A Children's Theater COULD be conducted on a self-supporting basis. Second—A Children's Theatre was what the public wanted.

In the autumn of 1937, Indiana State Teachers College and the Public School System of Terre Haute and Vigo County became interested in the Children's Theatre and made known their desire to become affiliated with the organization. Since the object in establishing a Children's Theatre was to encourage self-expression in children, the Founders believed the sponsorship of the schools would prove valuable, and the proposal submitted was accepted. The Founders retained the privilege of conducting all business connected with the organization.
